

patriots, new to political activity, were aroused by PAC slogans and sincerely volunteered and made sacrifices for their ideals. They are bound to realize sooner or later that splitters and liars can never lead our people to freedom, and we are sure that the broad liberation movement will always find an honourable place for them.

The broadest unity of the forces fighting apartheid has always been the aim of our liberation movement. Such unity will be hammered out on the anvil of struggle within our country; not in the course of sterile debates with exiled politicians of the type so scathingly exposed by Sol Dubula.

ARTHUR LETELE

We are sad indeed to learn of the passing of Dr. Arthur Letele, former Treasurer-General of the African National Congress of South Africa. A modest man, his quiet manner revealed little of the ardent patriotism and heroism which showed itself in his many years of devotion to the national liberation movement. In the midst of the savage police attack at Kimberley in November 1952, when fourteen Africans were shot dead and thirty-five wounded, Arthur Letele stood amidst the flying bullets, rallying the people and attending to the wounded. He faced the long years of the treason trial, of the 1960 detention, and of his eventual exile to Lesotho, with fortitude. But there can be no doubt that savage police persecution was basically responsible for shortening the life of this fine fighter for freedom.

We express our deepest sympathy to his family and to his colleagues in the African National Congress.
