

The Open School Children's Art Calendar 1990

State of emergency

This diabolical law is mainly imposed to upset and frustrate us, the Black Africans, for nine times out of ten it is our lives that are made miserable.

I consider it as a diabolical law because it mainly promotes detention without trial. It literally gives the Boers power over us and make us feel inferior. Chills are sent down our spines as we become so fearful that we are frightened by our own shadows.

The drawings for the calendar were done by the children of the Open School and are based on the thematic approach applied in all workshops, where children critically analyse and examine issues affecting their lives. They express their perceptions and feelings through the mediums of Art, Drama and Dance.
