4000 DEAD.
 AND STILL COUNTING.

None of the names you have just read are of those who died on the night of Dec. 2/3, '84 when toxic gases leaked from the pesticide factory of Union Carbide at Bhopal. In the seven years that have passed, the victims have died at a rate twice that of those unexposed to the gas. And, about 400,000 of them continue to suffer from untreatable systemic illnesses. The Supreme Court of India has, in its final judgement, let the multinational wash its hands off by paying a pittance of $470m. But it has directed that criminal proceedings may continue. Which means that now, as ever, the victims will need our solidarity. To help punish the guilty. And prevent any more 'Bhopals'. Anywhere.
